

Reiki Treatment Disclaimer

Healing and medicine are two separate disciplines. Reiki is the art of healing, not the practice of medicine. Reiki is intended to be a supplement to, and not a substitute for, professional medical care and treatment. In the case of any serious medical ailment or condition, you should always consult your doctor for advice.

Reiki practitioners should never diagnose, perform medical treatment, make any medical claims, offer any guarantees, prescribe therapies, remedies or medication, or interfere with any form of treatment prescribed by a licensed medical professional. I will endeavour to do my very best to help you, but I cannot offer any guarantee of success.

As the client you will always be treated with the utmost respect and integrity. Confidentiality is an underpinning principle and you can be assured that all personal data and information will be kept safe, complete and private at all times, both during treatment and for a minimum of six years afterwards.

I have read the above disclaimer and I fully understand and accept all of its terms and conditions and am willing to proceed with a treatment.
